

We recommend the following procedures when posting questions to the Discussion forums:

- 1) List the exercise name and question number in the title of the post, or at the very beginning of the post
- 2) Copy and paste the text of the question you are trying to answer in the post
- 3) Include the query (or queries) you tried, the errors you received, AND the logic behind why you wrote the query the way you did. When pasting your query, it is useful to use the code option circled in blue below:

When you do, a code box will appear that numbers each line of code you write. Click on the select language option, scroll to SQL, and click:

Now the code you write will automatically be formatted to reflect SQL keywords.

If somebody responds to your question, it is always nice to thank them! Further, we are continuously trying to figure out the best way to help students, so we would greatly appreciate it if you could leave feedback about the responses you receive, either through thumbs up/down or through comments. Your feedback will help us figure out how to make the course better.

Finally, remember to help each other! Learning is always more fun when you do it with other people, and you'll find that one of the best ways to learn is to help other people troubleshoot their code.

Have fun!
